Book of Genesis:

Written by Moses.

We don't know if Moses wrote the book of Genesis during his exile from 40 years in the land of Midian, or during the exodus of 40 years in the desert with the people of Israel.

This book is designed to introduce the origins of man, then the origins of the chosen people by God. It marks the beginning of things, lays the Foundations to move forward in a well understanding.

Book of exodus:

Written by Moses.

This book tells the story of the people of Israel after the death of Joseph until the establishment of the tabernacle by Moses.

Many believe that God has chosen the Hebrew people because they were the most holy people, most turned unto God than others. With the respect that I owe to those who are part of the Hebrew people, this people had nothing more spiritual than another. When God spoke to Abraham, it was about all the peoples whom God spoke, not only of the chosen people. History shows us that the members of the people of God had nothing to envy to other peoples. They have committed mistakes as bad as other peoples; some members were sometimes just as perverted as or even worse than some other peoples. If God has chosen a people it was to be the guardian of the law. They would be the people who were going to continue this law for 1400 years, until the coming of the grace through Jesus Christ.

It would have been easy for satan and his demons to sow a big confusion over this law if all the peoples of the Earth were to be the guarantors. After a few hundred years, it would have been a total confusion, and Christ could not have come to fulfill a law that would have distorted and perverted with the time. However, this law has nevertheless been denatured by the Pharisees, although it has been entrusted only to a small amount of the human beings: the Hebrews. Then it is easy to imagine the derivatives that will be followed if God had not chosen a people aside to share to keep this law for about 1400 years.

Book of Leviticus:

Written by Moses.

This book includes all orders, practices according to the law given to Moses by God. It is a book very regulatory-sounding, because it exposes laws. The proper of a law is to not make feelings, very contrasting with the teachings of the Grace of Christ.

Book of numbers:

Written by Moses.

The name of this book comes from the enumeration of the people of Israel. This book brings together all the discontent of the people, all the impatience, etc... This attitude has prevented the people to go forward.

Book of Deuteronomy:

Written by Moses.

The people of God had just gone round and round for 40 years in the desert. The generation who had fled Egypt had disappeared. Another generation came up, therefore we could get the impression in this book that Moses repeats the law given 40 years earlier. But there was the need to like "reposition" this particular law so that it continues in all its truth. Moses gives again the outline of this law before the people crossed the Jordan. Moses exhorts the people to take into account the unfortunate experiences of the first generation to not repeat the same mistakes.

Book of Joshua:

Written by Samuel but not officially.

The new generation is there!

This book is a succession of several peoples falls in the period of the judges. The main people are: Deborah, Gideon, Jephthah, and Samson.

Book of Ruth:

As for the book of Joshua, it is possible that it has been written by Samuel, but nobody can prove it.

This book is a great proof of the will of God for all men to be saved, that God is the God of all human beings without any exception.

The story of Ruth is for me a beautiful window on God's love for all human beings and at the same time a clarification on the fact that the Hebrew people was nothing in "holier" than other peoples. Ruth, a young Moabites that was not part of the Hebrew people, sees her life directed by God and becomes one of the ancestors of Jesus Christ!

First book of Samuel:

The author is unknown.

In this book ends the period of judges in Israel. Another period begins, the one of the Kings. We can follow the story of Samuel who is the last judge in Israel, then the story of Saul the first of the Kings until his depravation, followed by the crowning of King David's.

Second book of Samuel:

The author is unknown.

This book mainly tells about King David's reign, his decisions, his attitudes.

First and second book of Kings:

The author is unknown.

These two books form originally a single book. It would seem that it was divided into two books later.

It says here the history of the reign of Solomon, and then division of the people into two kingdoms: Israel and Judah.

First and second book of Chronicles:

Some believe that Ezra is the author, but there is no certainty.

These books include the history of the Kings from the book of Samuel to the books of Kings. Many passages are similar to the books of Samuel, 1kings and 2 Kings.

The second book of Chronicles is more focused on the Kingdom of Judah and its errors. One sees the story of Josiah who handed back in order the orders of God (which had been totally forgotten) through the book of the law find by Hilkiah the priest, in the ruins of the temple.

Book of Ezra:

Written in part by Ezra.

This book tells the end of the captivity of the Jews in Babylon. Their return to their country. Followed by the reconstruction of cities and the temple; new rules are put in place.

Book of Nehemiah:

This book was before included in the book of Ezra, both were one book. It also covers the reconstruction of the temple after the deportation, and the rules implemented in the people.

Book of Esther:

The author is unknown.

This book speaks about Queen Esther who delivers the Jewish people doomed to be exterminated. This book shows in a clear way the protection of God on His people at this time.

Book of Job:

Some believe that Moses is the author.

Job was a contemporary of Abraham. He lived in the period from the end of the life of Abraham.

The book of Job is not access as many believe on the theme of suffering. It is nothing of the sort, this book speaks of scientific realities of our earth, like the weather, the various phenomena of the elements, but also an open window on the person of God. And of course the main element is the battle between God and satan. Job is not as a pawn which God would use to fight against satan. Many use this book to explain a tolerance of God to allow suffering among Christians, but this theory is totally absurd. (For more details see my study the personality of God).

Book of Psalms:

This book is like a collection of songs with the theme of praise and prayer mainly. Several wrote their lyrics of songs such as: David, Asaph, Agee, Zechariah, etc...

Book of proverbs:

Written by King Salomon.

This man King of Israel was renowned for his wisdom. People came running from several countries to listen to him. The book of proverbs is a succession of morality, advice and truths that show how to live a right life of wisdom. These maxims are valuable lighting.

Book of the song of songs:

Written by King Salomon.

This book is an oriental poem. It shows the relationship between the Church and Jesus Christ. Many passages are imaged, but it gives an idea of the intense relationship that the Church must have with Christ.

Book of the Prophet Isaiah:

Author (supposed) Isaiah.

He lived about in 770 BC.

He was the Prophet who gave the most words in relation to the coming of the grace on Earth by Jesus Christ.

Book of the Prophet Jeremiah:

Author (supposed) Jeremiah.

He lived about in 670 before the coming of Jesus Christ, 100 years after Isaiah.

This book contains warnings, reminders about the right way to act with God.

Jeremiah ceased not to warn, to denounce the bad behaviors and judgments that will follow in. The book of Lamentations is the continuation.

Book of the prophet Ezekiel:

Author (supposed) Ezekiel.

This book is nearly the most mysterious with the revelation one. It brings together a range of earthly and heavenly events that are described in a very imaged way. This book is at the same time one of those who teach us the most about things of the spiritual realm. Ezekiel was a contemporary of Jeremiah, he lived approximately in 650 BC.

Book of the Prophet Daniel:

Written by Daniel.

Daniel has lived almost his entire life in captivity. He has therefore not really known his people in freedom when they lived in the Promised Land.

This book is to my opinion in two parts, the first shows Daniel as a person very integrates to God, he does never compromise.

The second part gives prophecies associated with the book of revelation and that were not all completed today.

Daniel lived as deported to Babylon in 630 BC.

Book of the Prophet Hosea:

Author Hosea.

This short book encompasses for its majority, warnings against the idolatry of Israel. Hosea was a contemporary of Isaiah.

Book of the Prophet Joel:

(Assumed) author Joel.

James leads the people to repent of their wicked ways by showing them all the things that should be rectified, and also the blessings resulting on the part of God.

Book of the prophet Amos:

(Assumed) author Amos.

Like his brothers prophets, Amos warns the people on the urgency to change his ways. All these prophets have lived in this same period, where the people of God and the right way to live was away. We see that God sent a quantity of prophets for the people to return to the practice of the precepts of the law, as about 600 years later, Jesus had to come on Earth. Because there were big chances that this people had forget that a Messiah would have to come. If we consider the silence of about 400 years between the two alliances, it remained only to 200 years to the people to return to the obedience of God's law and especially waiting for the Messiah.

Book of Obadiah:

Author unknown.

This book tells and reminds primarily the history of the people of Edom which denied the people of God the passage on his land. This is followed by the ruin of the Edomite people. Pictured here is the protection of God on His people.

Book of Jonah:

Written by Jonas.

He lived about in 760 Jesus BC.

Jonas has learned from God to accept His orders. Jonas was initially a bit grumpy, but he eventually accepts, after some time in the belly of a fish, to go to Nineveh to preach the repentance. Nineveh was a huge city because it took more than two days of walking to cross it.

Book of the Prophet Micah:

Written by Micah.

Micah lived approximately in 750 BC. Micah is one more prophet who by his prophecies tries to reposition the people in a good way of thinking before the coming of the Grace through Jesus Christ.

Book of the Prophet Nahum:

Author Nahum.

Nahum prophesies on the fall of the city of Nineveh. This city would receive, after warnings of Jonah, judgment for those who had not listened to the message of repentance of Jonah, and who preferred to continue their violence and their killings.

Book of the Prophet Habakkuk:

Author: Habakkuk.

He lived at the time of Babylon the great. He gave prophecies about the providence of God.

Book of the Prophet Zephaniah:

Author Zephaniah.

Zephaniah was a Prophet who lived approximately in 630 BC. The contents of his prophecy mainly concerns some judgments of God, always of course in the period of the law. In these judgments, there was always a way out. God did not judge to punish. The law has to be respected because it gave sin its existence, and without the existence of sin no salvation could take place.

Book of the Prophet Haggai:

Author Haggai.

Haggai was born during the captivity of the Jewish people to Babylon. He lived about 500 BC. He lived the end of this deportation. Haggai was a friend with Zechariah the Prophet. His prophecy concerns mainly the reconstruction of the temple, and a warning to those who were not really motivated to rebuild the temple.

If has God so insisted for a reconstruction, it is that because this people should receive his Messiah, the son of God, Jesus Christ who would revolutionize the habits of His time: He would bring eternal salvation by grace. How could this people welcome his Messiah if they were abandoning the law? How could they join the grace of Christ if the temple was not rebuilt?

It would have been great evidence that during this period of more than 400 years, Jews would have completely forgotten the law and what it contained, if the temple was not rebuilt. It is easy to understand with this light that this is not a "fad" of God, an excess of authority or complacency than to ensure that the temple was absolutely rebuilt.

Book of the prophet Zechariah:

As I said in the previous book of Haggai, Zechariah was a contemporary of the Prophet Haggai.

As his friend Haggai, Zechariah has without lies, prophesied that the temple will have to be rebuilt.

Zechariah has included prophecies about the Messiah which should come. His writings are much longer than those of Haggai.

Book of the prophet Malachi:

Author unknown.

It was adult in 450 BC. He is part of the last prophets of the old Covenant. Of course there were other prophets from in the time of Jesus. But I consider this period of the life of Jesus as a period of overlap because, although the law was still there and in force, but grace was also beginning to be active.

Gospel of Matthew.

It would appear that Matthew was at least 80 years old when he wrote the story of the life of Jesus.

This Gospel contains at least 60 references to the Old Testament which speak about prophecies about the Messiah who was to come.

Matthew in his Gospel puts a very strong emphasis on the fact that Jesus is the Messiah awaited by the Jewish people, the Son of God.

I think we can say that this Gospel that Matthew wrote was mainly addressed to the Jews at that time, so that they can recognize their Messiah.

Of course this is not because Matthew greatly made reference to the fact that Jesus is the son of God, the Messiah, that this Gospel is not also intended to all people.

Gospel of Mark.

Marc would have written his Gospel significantly at the same time as Matthew. This is the same Marc, called John-Marc which is found in the book of Acts of the Apostles.

Acts 12: 12 So, when he had considered this, he came to the house of Mary, the mother of John whose surname was Mark, where many were gathered together praying.

It is also the same mark which separates from Paul and his team in:

Acts 13: 13 Now when Paul and his party set sail from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia; and John, departing from them, returned to Jerusalem.

Then a few years later, we see that Marc, who had not yet written his Gospel, resumed with Paul in:

2 Timothy 4: 11 Only Luke is with me. Get Mark and bring him with you, for he is useful to me for ministry.

This Gospel is the shortest of the four. Marc wrote this Gospel to non-Jews. It appears strongly that his purpose was to show Jesus in His acts of His everyday life. Few references are given, to prophecies such as the one of Matthew. Marc has focused on the dedication of Jesus, His commitment, His character, His human qualities, all this to show His love for others as the Son of God. The Gospel of mark shows a Jesus who puts others before Himself. He was not looking at fatigue, sometimes even He had no time to eat.

Gospel of Luke:

Luke is the author of this Gospel, but also of the book of acts. He wrote his Gospel only a few years after that the ones of Matthew and mark. Luke was a doctor's in medicine. His Gospel as well as the book of acts are both addressed to the same person, a certain Theophilus. Some argue the fact that this Theophilus could be the lawyer who handled the court of Paul in Rome. This is why Luke would have be careful to write the life of Jesus as well as the purpose of His coming to Earth; but also the lifetime and the commitment of Paul in the book of acts. This theory seems to me not being out of sense at all, because Luke was the best placed to talk about the life of Paul. Luke traveled with Paul, he saw, he heard, he was very well placed to talk about the commitment of Paul to announce the grace of Christ.

The purpose of this Gospel was to demonstrate point by point the facts that have been significant in the life of Jesus which many are supported by eyewitness accounts. Luke reveals to us some situations which are only written in his Gospel. Hence the advantage to have the four Gospels. This gives us a vision and a much more complete understanding of the life of Jesus.

The Gospel of John.

It is the one who has been wrote in last. About 4 or 5 years after Luke.

In this Gospel we find many situations that we can't find in the other Gospels.

For example, the wedding of Cana, or Jesus washing the feet of His disciples.

John insists on the fact that Jesus is the Word of God. This Word incarnated in a man, Jesus Christ.

It seems that this John is the same as the John who was part of the twelve apostles, the disciple whom Jesus loved.

We see, therefore, that having four Gospels is a very important "plus". This gives us the view and appreciation of four different people, four different feelings, four different goals.

These four Gospels are therefore a very valuable source to know the life of Jesus and His teaching on grace.

The book of acts.

As we said earlier, it is our brother Luke who also wrote this book. It seems also that this book, as the Gospel of Luke gives a lot of eye details of stories about the lives of the Apostles. It is therefore not impossible that this book of acts would have been related to the Gospel of Luke, to give to Theophilus, his lawyer, a very clear vision of the reason for the commitment of Paul in the teaching of the grace of Christ, so that he could properly defend Paul.

This book recounts the beginnings of the Church of Christ, its establishment, the establishment of its stature. The Church was in need of foundations. We are therefore witnessing the “establishment” of the first Church of Jesus Christ.

It is also the first manifestations of the Holy Spirit on the Christians, as well as life with the Holy Spirit. We see the practical effects of life with the Holy Spirit.

The first persecution is also documented in this book.

This book describes also the history of the missionary journeys of Paul. Here are maps of his four trips to give us a little clearer idea.

Paul's first journey. About in the year 45 after Jesus Christ.

This trip is in acts 13: 2 → acts 14:28.

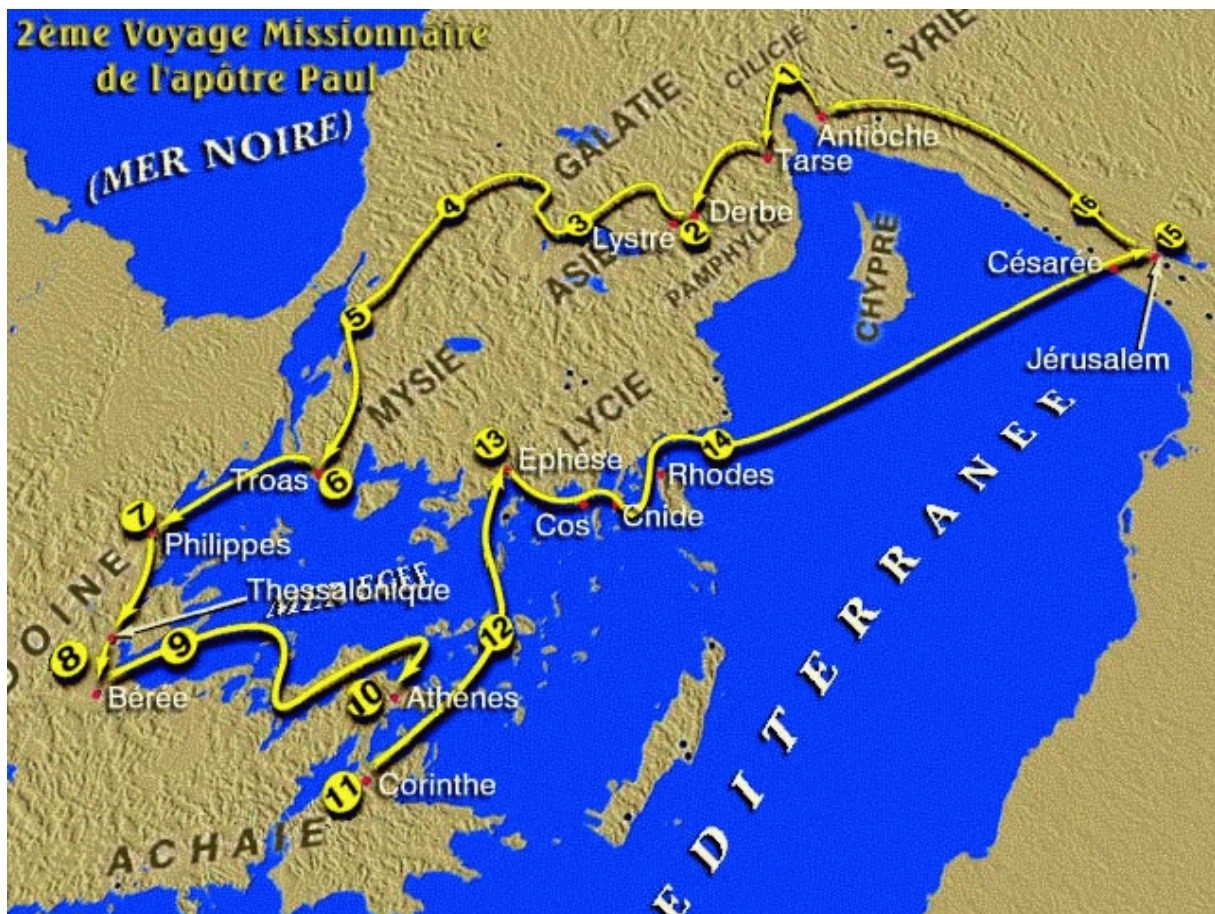

It last two years to cover a distance of 2400 kms.

Second journey of Paul about five years after the first one.

This trip is Acts 15: 40 → Acts 18:22.

This time Paul leaves for three years and covered a distance of 5500 kms.

Third journey of Paul about two years after the second one.

The trip corresponds to acts 18: 23 → Acts 21:17.

This time Paul leaves for four years because he will stop for several months in some places. He covers a total distance of approximately 5500 kms.

Fourth journey of Paul about a year after the third trip.

This trip is acts 23: 31 → Acts 28: 16.

This time Paul leaves for his last trip because he will stop to Rome to no longer leave. It is estimated that Paul died by decapitation (but this is not written in the biblical texts) approximately in the year 65 after Jesus Christ.

Epistles to the Romans:

Author Paul the apostle.

Paul wrote this letter to the Christians of Rome. Many believe that this letter was written when Paul was in prison in Rome, but Paul wrote this letter to the Romans from Corinth town approximately 50 years after Jesus Christ.

In my opinion, this book is the basis foundation for the Christian.

Paul speaks about the grace that we get through faith in Jesus Christ. The first part perfectly explains the plan of salvation in Christ.

The second part explains to us the duties and practical life of a born again and a Holy Spirit filled Christian.

First Epistle to the Corinthians. Written from Ephesus.

Author Paul the apostle. Approximately in the year 57 after Jesus Christ. This church was divided between those who were for Paul's teaching, and the other who had adopted the teachings of a certain Apollos who arrived in this Church after the departure of Paul.

Paul was known to have a talks without artifice, but his teachings were very deep, and his words were simple.

The city of Corinth was from a Greek influence, with everything that comes with it. The Greeks of the time were very fond of beautiful phrases and philosophy. It would seems that this Apollos arrived in this church, and that with his verbal ease has diverted a large part of the Christians of that Church in harmful ways and outside Jesus Christ's teachings.

Second Epistle to the Corinthians. Written from Macedonia.

Author Paul the apostle. Approximately in the year 57 after Jesus Christ. Apparently the Church of Corinth remained several months in harmful practices and outside the teaching of Jesus Christ.

Things are worsened because now it is Paul who is challenged in his Ministry by some of the Corinthians.

This letter will be for Paul the opportunity to defend himself and prove that his call actually comes from God.

Epistle to the Galatians.

This letter, written by the Apostle Paul from Corinth has been written some 6 or 8 months after the two Epistles to the Corinthians.

Paul does not write here to one community or one local church, he wrote at a set of Christians living in Galatia, which included many churches.

It would seem that the Christians of the region tended to return to the practice of the law of Moses, which often resulted in a "salvation by works". Paul teaches in this letter mainly the justification by faith and not by works.

Epistle to the Ephesians.

Always written by the Apostle Paul about 4 or 5 years after the one of the Galatians approximately in the year 60 after Jesus Christ. It would seem that Paul wrote this letter from Rome.

This time Paul wrote to the Christians living in this city of Ephesus.

This church was composed of Christians from non-Jewish peoples, and in the same time from Christians from the Jewish people background. Cohabitation happening not always very well. Some "ex-Jews" thought that they had rights to certain preferential treatments compared to their brothers and sisters from other people than the Jews background. Paul therefore stress in this letter on unity among brothers and sisters from different background, on the fact that Christians formed now only one people, and that there are more Jews or Greeks, but only Christians who are brothers and sisters.

Epistle to the Philippians.

Written by the Apostle Paul significantly at the same time as the one to the Ephesians. Still written from Rome, seems.

This is here the first example where Paul wrote a letter to a local church without glaring problem. He is in prison in Rome when he wrote his words. Paul has a great satisfaction with his brothers and sisters of Philippi. This church began with Lydia merchant of purple, which surely was followed by other women who began to gather near the River, then later by the jailer and his family. We can find this story in the book of acts 16: 12-40

Epistle to the Colossians.

Significantly written at the same time as the previous two, in this letter Paul addresses the Christians with the aim to demonstrate that Jesus Christ is the only solution, that only in Him is the fullness.

First Epistle to the Thessalonians.

Author: the Apostle Paul written in the city of Corinth in the year 53 after Jesus Christ.

Paul is here helped with Timothy: he sent Timothy to teach the Church. After a while Timothy made his report to Paul. Which probably inspired Paul to write to the Thessalonians.

Here again we are dealing with a church without problems, and Paul takes a pleasure to write to them.

Second Epistle to the Thessalonians.

This letter is in a continuation of the first one, somewhat like a “next part” in the same context.

First Epistle to Timothy.

Author Paul. Approximately in the year 64 after Jesus Christ.

Timothy is a young Christian who Paul taught the basics and methods of teaching of the grace of Christ. Timothy will have to teach, rebuke, and guide his brothers and sisters in need. It would seem that Timothy would be called to a great work. The Bible does not say if he will have to practice the 5 ministries in order to teach, but in any case the Bible shows that Timothy must learn to teach. Paul says that he has been established preacher and apostle, there is thus likely that Timothy has at least these two tasks to accomplish also. We find also in this letter a number of practical examples for the everyday life of a Christian.

Second Epistle to Timothy.

This is apparently the last writings of our brother Paul from his prison in Rome. He continues to teach Timothy, as a statement that he will have to take after Paul. It seems that Paul has a great need to see Timothy, perhaps to give him some last recommendations, but also to be comforted by the presence of his younger brother Timothy.

Epistle to Titus.

Written by Paul approximately in the year 64 after Jesus Christ.

Titus is like a man of trust for Paul. He loved people, he was selfless. Paul here focuses on the good works of the life of a Christian.

Epistle to Philemon.

It is still Paul who wrote this letter to Philemon, who is a member of the Church of colossus. This man is surely wealthy because Paul asked him a housing for a certain Onesimus who was his slave. This letter is more personal one because it concerns a request of Paul. Onesimus was in the service of Philemon and fled by stealing his master. Then Onesimus converted and remained with Paul in Rome. Then after some time Paul sees from a good thing for Onesimus to return to his master and brother in Christ, Philemon.

Epistle to the Hebrews.

Author uncertain. Written in the year 65 after Jesus Christ.

This letter is addressed to Christians from a Jewish background. There is a bunch of information's on the difference between the law of Moses and the grace of Christ. Many Christians had some bad habits by returning to the old Covenant practices while remaining Christian. But the author shows that this is not possible. This teaching shows the fulfillment of the law by Jesus Christ.

Epistle of James.

Author James the brother of Jesus. Written in the 45 year after Jesus Christ.

James wrote to Christians from a Jewish origin who lived outside Israel.

James is teaching here on the fact that our Christian life must have good works.

He also addresses the attitude between brothers and sisters, towards to those who have experience the persecution.

First Epistle of Peter.

Written by the Apostle Peter in the year 64 after Jesus Christ.

This is not the Peter we know in the Gospels that we see here. He must have been about 80 years old and a lifetime of learning with the Holy Spirit.

Peter talks to the Christians of Asia minor. He teaches, encourages, and strengthens, according to what Jesus had said about him.

This letter speaks primarily of the victory over the suffering as a Christian.

Second epistle of Peter.

Written by the Apostle Peter 3 years after the first letter.

Peter now goes against false doctrines and false teachers. This letter contains a full series of very useful warnings still very up to date for us today.

First Epistle of John.

Author the apostle John.

This letter was written about in the year 95 after Jesus Christ. Jean was very old, and also very mature.

John here puts a strong emphasis on the love of God. He is talking to all Christians in general, and from every periods. He teaches how to live a life in God, have a perfect joy, refrain from sin, pay attention to the false teachings, and activate his faith.

Second Epistle of John.

John wrote this letter to Kyria, a woman, and her family. The content is intended to warn against false teachers. Some people think that Kyria can be a local church, but there is absolutely no evidence, and this does not alter the teaching of this letter to us today anyway.

Third Epistle of John.

The three letters that Jean has written have been substantially at the same time.

This time John writes to a certain Gaius.

The main theme is the hospitality that Christians should practice.

Epistle of Jude.

There are great chances that Jude is one of the brothers of Jesus.

Jude had not adhered to the teaching of Jesus in his youth, it was that although later that he became Christian.

This letter puts us even once again warned against false teaching.

Book of Revelation.

Author: the apostle John. Written in the year 96 after Jesus Christ.

It would appear that John wrote this book about one year after these three letters, but this is only speculation on my part.

This book of Revelation is for me a wonderful book that shows the love of God, in my opinion, but also a great book of evangelization.

I often compare it with the book of Job for his comprehension. Often people see the book of Revelation as the great destruction of our world and the judgment of God on humans.

But there is nothing of the sort. This book of Revelation shows that God gives grace that He loves, that He is patient.
